COUNSELLING IN TRAUMA AND STRESS

Participants are able to
• assess the effects of traumatic events and adequate responses;
• reflect upon their own role as the counselling person;
• take care of their own needs as caregiver.

Understanding the emotional effects of conflicts and disasters on their victims and responding to the victims’ needs are crucial capacities for peace workers and staff of NGOs working in conflict areas and disaster situations.

In this training you will get familiar with the emotional responses to traumatic events, effects of traumatic events on specific vulnerable groups and the social impacts of trauma. Further, the role of the counselling person and the work with victims will be explored and special attention is given to the needs of the caregiver.

This training course addresses staff of NGOs and peace workers who experience or need to assist in traumatic and stressful situations within their work.

Trainers: Ruth Mischnick
Date: 12–16 November 2018

RUTH MISCHNICK studied law and psychology before she worked in crisis and conflict areas. Her focus is on nonviolent conflict transformation and trauma work. She works mediation at a university in Vienna.

PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Participants are able to
• assess the strengths and weaknesses of selected project management approaches and tools;
• select the relevant and appropriate tools for their project context;
• apply key elements of selected project management tools.

Peace work needs proper planning, monitoring and evaluation in order to be able to contribute positively towards conflict transformation. In this training we will deal with questions about effective ways to promote peace and respective tools are offered to find valid answers. These approaches and tools range from Outcome Mapping to “Do no harm” and “Reflecting on Peace Practice”.

Participants will gain insights into selected tools and have the opportunity to apply these tools to their own projects and case studies. Participants will assess the strengths and weaknesses of these tools in order to choose and adapt the right tools for managing their peace projects.

The training is relevant for all who intend to engage in or are already in a position to coordinate peace projects.

Trainers: Jochen Neumann, Gesa Bent
Date: 19–23 November 2018

Jochen Neumann is a trainer in nonviolent conflict transformation and director of KURVE Wustrow. He worked on mediation and reconciliation in South Africa and implemented “do no harm” at a human rights organisation.

GESA BENT is a trainer and moderator working to create learning spaces for civil society organisations, movements and networks. Her focus is on strategy design, project management and international advocacy, combined with extensive experience in the field of gender, peace and security.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The trainings take place at the training centre of KURVE Wustrow in the Wendland region, in the North of Germany close to Hamburg and Hannover.

Each training lasts five days, from Monday 12:30 h until Friday 13:00 h. The trainings are held in English and are open to international participants.

Participation Fee:
1.500,– Euro for organisations
1.000,– Euro for single persons
750,– Euro reduced fee for individuals (on enquiry)

The fee includes training material, vegetarian food and lodging in dormitory style. If lack of funds is an obstacle to your participation, please let us know. Depending on availability of funds, we may be able to offer reductions on the participation fee.

Applications should reach us as soon as possible, for participants in need of a visa or financial support the latest by 30 June 2018, for those without visa requirement the latest by 31 August 2018.

Please use the application form on our website: https://kurvewustrow.civiservice.de/civicrm/event/info/reset=1&id=7

or contact our training unit: pt@kurvewustrow.org

Supported by

KURVE Wustrow
Kirchstraße 14 | 29462 Wustrow (Germany)
Phone: +49 (0) 5843/98710 | Fax: +49 (0) 5843/987111
info@kurvewustrow.org | www.kurvewustrow.org
Account for donations:
IBAN: DE06 4306 0967 2041 6468 00
BIC: GENODEM1GLS

PRACTITIONER TRAININGS FOR NONVIOLENT CONFLICT TRANSFORMATION

October–November 2018
6 weeks – 6 different topics individually bookable
Participants are able to
• apply a security management framework and so advance their personal security awareness and skills.
• work with inputs, examples, exercises and feedback from facilitators.
• apply selected tools for the analysis of the dynamics of nonviolent social conflict in their own contexts;
• think more strategically, i.e. formulating goals, steps and risks, opportunities and repression, and how to build sustainable empowering structures.

Trainers:
Ayya Chebanova, Prasad Reddy
Date: 05–09 November 2018

Strategising Nonviolent Change for Social Movements

SECURITY MANAGEMENT

Participants are able to
• apply security management framework and so advance
  organizational security management;
• apply selected risk and context analysis tools and develop security guidelines.

Peace workers faces threats not only because of where they work but also because of what type of work they do. This training aims at proactively managing security on an organizational level while touching aspects of personal security. Therefore coordination or management level staff of NGOs and others who are responsible for security of fieldworkers or activists will benefit most.

The training is structured alongside a security management framework that can also be used for advancing organizational security later on. We work with inputs, examples, exercises and small group work. The training also includes a crisis management simulation and smaller roles play. The training will focus on creating policies, programmes and practices that make peace work and activism safer.

Trainers: Tanya Spencer, N. N.
Date: 15–19 October 2018

COMMUNICATION SKILLS

Participants are able to
• to assess the strengths and weaknesses of communication
  and to analyse and distinguish the layers of verbal and non-verbal communication
• to communicate in a given situation and to react and act in a constructive manner
• to communicate using nonviolent communication methods e.g. active listening, reflection and mediation

Peace work without appropriate communication is impossible. Many phrases can stabilise or destabilise a situation. Successful peace work is based on an appropriate and respectful communication.

Trainers: Dorothea Giesche, Mehrangiz Maki
Date: 22–26 October 2018

DOROTHEA GIESCHE
is a trainer in nonviolent conflict transformation, anti-bias and gender. She works together with perpetrators. She brought the anti-bias approach from South Africa to Germany and worked in a number of human rights projects in South Africa and beyond as an international trainer and activist.

MEHRANGIZ MAKI
is a social worker; systemic family therapist and mediator. Originally from Iran, she lives in Berlin for many years. She works with women and girls from diverse backgrounds, accompanies refugees and works as a caseworker.

Participants will gain insights into selected methods and have the opportunity to apply these methods to their own communication and/or case studies. Key methods used are active listening, reflection, non-violent communication according to Marshall Rosenberg and the phases of mediation.

Trainers will assess the strengths and weaknesses of these methods in order to enrich their constructive communication. The training is relevant for all who are involved in peace work and need to communicate constructively with respect and authenticity.

Communication is a human rights monitor and conflict transformation trainer working in hostile environments. These experiences fed into her peace training which gave participants the knowledge and skills to face and use risk.

TRAINERS SPENCER

Participants are able to
• to explain and build upon the anti-bias and social inclusion methods in order to enrich their constructive communication.
• to analyse and distinguish the layers of verbal and non-verbal
  communication
• to assess the strengths and weaknesses of communication
  and to analyse and distinguish the layers of verbal and non-verbal
  communication

Peace work without appropriate communication is impossible. Many phrases can stabilise or destabilise a situation. Successful peace work is based on an appropriate and respectful communication.

Trainers will gain insights into selected methods and have the opportunity to apply these methods to their own communication and/or case studies. Key methods used are active listening, reflection, non-violent communication according to Marshall Rosenberg and the phases of mediation.

Trainers will assess the strengths and weaknesses of these methods in order to enrich their constructive communication. The training is relevant for all who are involved in peace work and need to communicate constructively with respect and authenticity.

Trainers: Dorothea Giesche, Mehrangiz Maki
Date: 22–26 October 2018

DOROTHEA GIESCHE
is a trainer in nonviolent conflict transformation, anti-bias and gender. She works together with perpetrators. She brought the anti-bias approach from South Africa to Germany and worked in a number of human rights projects in South Africa and beyond as an international trainer and activist.

MEHRANGIZ MAKI
is a social worker; systemic family therapist and mediator. Originally from Iran, she lives in Berlin for many years. She works with women and girls from diverse backgrounds, accompanies refugees and works as a caseworker.

Participants are able to
• apply selected tools for the analysis of the dynamics of nonviolent social conflict in their own contexts;
• think more strategically, i.e. formulating goals, steps and demands of nonviolent social movements;
• reflect upon and express their own role in processes of exclusion and inclusion at personal, interpersonal and structural levels in a global context.

Many phrases can stabilise or destabilise a situation. Successful peace work is based on an appropriate and respectful communication.

Coaching elements will be used to tailor the trainings to the needs and interests of the participants, so that they will leave with a practical toolkit for further action. Special emphasis will be given to not just develop grand plans, but to deal with chaos, risks, opportunities and repression, and how to build strategic alliances, in order to turn inevitable failures and shortcomings into long lasting success.

Trainers: Mai Ali, Thimna Bunte
Date: 29–02 November 2018

MAI ALI
is a trainer for nonviolence and digital security, a human rights defender and computer engineer. Originally from Sudan, she is currently living in Berlin. She is active as a human rights defender in Sudan and works as a trainer in nonviolent social movements.

THIMNA BUNTE
is a former aid worker for Weltraint. She accompanies, coaches and trains actors and initiatives of nonviolent resistance and conflict transformation.

Participants are able to
• reflect upon and express their own role in processes of exclusion and inclusion at personal, interpersonal and structural levels in a global context.
• critically reflect on the role of prejudices, power inequalities and ideologies in peace work and to begin to develop strategies to counter their negative effects;
• explain and build upon the anti-bias and social inclusion approach in their own work context.

Peace Work aims at establishing and nurturing inclusive societiesthat provide equal access to social, political and economic resources to all - irrespective of their ethnic origin, age, gender, physical or mental condition, religious background, sexual orientation, etc. The training introduces the concepts of Anti-Bias and Social Inclusion. It aims at strengthening respect for diversity and creating avenues for discrimination and social exclusion.

Participants will reflect how they themselves are involved in or affected by the structural and gender relations. They will learn how to initiate processes of prejudice awareness that motivate and equip individuals and institutions to critically confront their discriminatory attitudes and actions, and thus develop sustainable empowering structures.

Trainers: Cvetka Bojka, Prasad Reddy
Date: 05–09 November 2018

PRASAD REDDY
is a certified social inclusion and diversity trainer in the non-profit sector with vast international experience. He is the coordinator of the research, training and consultancy network Global Skills for Change in Berlin.

CVECTA BOJKA
is a trainer in the Anti-bias approach. She accompanies schools in the process of inclusion and facilitates programmes of international exchange and volunteer services.